

ABOUT STUART H. RODMAN

Stuart H. Rodman is the President and Co-founder of Clean Air USA LLC as well as Vice President and co-owner of Woodland Homes USA, Inc. Stuart has been a featured guest on national radio and has authored nationally syndicated reports on national infrastructure and energy topics.

An educator and public speaker, Stuart gained recognition nearly thirty years ago for his early work pioneering the use of computer technology in the public schools in the Portland Oregon area.

Stuart is an honors graduate from the University of Oregon, holds a Masters Degree in Education from Portland State University, a California Manufactured Homes Dealer License, and has a depth of experience in the financial services industry, business management, and research.

Stuart has assisted in the administration of numerous alternative energy and construction projects, has served on a White House Council, operates a consulting business, contributed to award winning national TV productions, and is recognized in Southern California as a leader in bringing biofuels to the local maritime community.

Stuart's consulting business includes clientele in the oil and gas industry, petroleum distributors, industrial developers, construction, international biofuels investors, solar power, and entertainment industry professionals.

Stuart's essays on the future of global energy supplies can be found in textbooks on college campuses and high schools throughout the world. Stuart recently gained national recognition for his key role in bringing Willie Nelson's Biodiesel to the West Coast and for his role in the development of the Green Ribbon™ Zero Net Energy, Affordable Solar Powered Manufactured Home.

Clean Air USA co-founder Stuart Rodman addresses a US EPA ceremony on behalf of Willie Nelson when the legendary entertainer was recognized by the US Environmental Protection Agency with a Region 9 Achievement Award after opening a biodiesel station in San Diego

Clean Air USA co-founder Stuart Rodman (seen to the right) helped to enable the opening of the first Willie Nelson biodiesel retail station in the Western United States

Clean Air USA co-founders Stuart Rodman and Mark Snyder contributed to the two time Emmy Award winning reality based TV show "Extreme Makeover: Home Edition", broadcast by ABC-TV on Sundays